Health Care Authority Board OKs $16.8 Million in Budget Cuts

TULSA – Today Oklahoma Health Care Authority board, which administers the SoonerCare (Medicaid) program, voted to cut $69.6 million from the program’s 2010 budget to meet a state-mandated 5 percent funding reduction. The cut represented $16.8 million in state funds while the balance is matching federal funds.

The cuts involved reducing administrative costs at the agency, changes to durable medical equipment (DME) and prescription benefits, and changes in payments to providers.

Changes most likely to be noticed by SoonerCare members are higher co-pays for adults. Inpatient hospital co-pays will increase from $3 to $10 per day, with a cap of $90, and home health co-pays will increase from $1 to $3 per visit. Adult behavioral health and DME, which previously had no co-pays, will now cost members $3 per visit. Also, while adult members will still get six prescriptions a month, only two can be brand-name medications.

Some of the more significant changes to providers include cost caps on some behavioral health treatments; pricing adjustments for oxygen, nebulizers and other DME products; and reducing payment for some resin dental fillings.

“The OHCA staff has worked diligently with providers and advocates to determine precise cuts that we hope will be the least painful. However, we know that any time you reduce benefits or services, people are affected,” said Mike Fogarty, OHCA’s chief executive officer.

“It is important to note that any reduction in state dollars in Medicaid results in a reduction in federal dollars to operate the program; currently, $1 cut in state funds means a loss of $3 in federal funds for a total program reduction of $4 dollars,” he added.
